'Neighborhood court' coming to West Sac

Citizen-run court would try to promote accountability for infractions like public drunkenness, petty theft

News-Ledger Editor

The concept of "neighborhood court" is soon to West Sacramento.

Those accused of certain low-level crimes will have a chance to exchange a court appearance and possible conviction for a chance to negotiate a resolution with a group of local volunteers and a facilitator in "neighborhood court."

Yolo County District Attorney Jeff Reisig told the News-Ledger that the program focuses on "restorative justice" — a concept that cuts across cultures and across the centuries. A modern version of these citizens' courts is now in operation across the causeway in Davis. It will launch in West Sacramento during the next few months.

The Yolo County version of the neighborhood court follows San Francisco's model. Reisig said that he has personally watched the Bay Area model in session.

"We have tweaked it a bit to make it more 'restorative,'" Reisig said. "Restorative justice is really just a way of having an individual accept responsibility for the harm they've cause to the person or community, and finding a way to make it right. It's all about accountability — making the victim whole."

This approach is based on "positive, not punitive," he added.

The neighborhood court model heading to West Sacramento will involve recruiting citizen volunteers to work with a trained "facilitator." Together, they will meet with alleged offenders and try to hammer out a deal that fits the crime.

GUEST COMMENTARY:

What is 'serpentine soil,' and why should you care?

By Mary K. Hanson
Tuleyome Association

"Serpentine Soil": when talking about the various habitats under consideration for a National Conservation Area designation in the Berryessa Snow Mountain region, that term comes up a lot. For most people, though, it's rather meaningless. Most of us, after all, aren't geologists or botanists, and if we've ever had an encounter with serpentine soil we probably didn't even realize it. The truth is, though, if you live in the Coast Ranges of California just about anywhere between Santa Barbara County and the Oregon border (or in the Sierra foothills) you're living in a region rich in serpentine outcroppings.

So what is "serpentine soil"? Simply speaking, if you think of the Earth as an onion made up of several different layers surrounding a molten core, we live on the very outer layer, on top of the soil that is a thin skin on the Earth's crust and on our layer the soil is for the most part full of nutrients and organic matter which allow a lot of plants and trees to thrive. Below us is another layer called the mantle. This layer is made of more dense, pressure resistant, 4-billion year old "ultramafic" minerals and rocks that are low in plant-nurturing calcium, potassium and other minerals, and high in things like magnesium, nickel and cobalt. When through tectonic action, veins or plugs or whole sheets of this mantle layer are thrust up to the surface, they come in contact with water, metamorphose and become "serpentinized" (converted into serpentine). And when these serpentinized outcroppings breakdown and mix with organic matter they form what is called "serpentine soil."

You've probably seen expanses of serpentine soil and didn't realize it. Like scrubby islands in a sea of green, they look misplaced, almost "unearthly" — barren, rocky, and sparsely vegetated by only occasional large trees and plants with few or very hardy leaves designed to reflect sunlight. And you may ask yourself, why should we care about this place? It's kind of ugly. But what's really exciting about these serpentine expanses is that within their boundaries you can readily view examples of plant adaptation, natural selection, and species differentiation at work.

Teen cited for driving into Southport pole

A car went into a Southport power pole on Thursday afternoon, dropping a live wire to the road and temporarily shutting off traffic.

According to Lieutenant Tod Sockman of the West Sacramento Police Department, a 19-year old man hit the pole at the intersection of Marshall Road and Otis Avenue at about 4:45 p.m. on Thursday, Jan. 23.

"The pole was broken in two, causing a live power line to lay across the roadway," said Sockman in a press release. "The driver, a 19-year old male from West Sacramento, was not injured. . . Alcohol does not appear to be a factor. The driver was cited for excessive speed, leaving the roadway, no insurance, no registration and no driver's license in possession."

A portion of Otis Avenue between Marshall Road and Bridgeway Lakes Drive was expected to be closed for "several hours."

One convicted in 2006 local killing

The office of Yolo County District Attorney Jeff Reisig has announced that on Monday, a local jury convicted a man after a "cold case" investigation for a 2006 murder and robbery in West Sacramento.

Juan Antonio Gonzales, a 29-year old from Sacramento, was found guilty of first degree murder, with the "special circumstance" of killing during a robbery. He was among those who robbed and shot Alfonso Prado, a janitor at Ortega's West bar, on June 18, 2006.

According to the D.A.'s office, Prado was cleaning the bar at 4205 West Capitol Avenue in West Sacramento when "unknown intruders" robbed him and shot him in the chest, leaving him dead.

"Three days later, the Sacramento Police Department recovered a handgun and entered identifying information into the National Ballistics Network," said the D.A.'s office. "Two years later, a 'cold hit' established that the gun, which was last in the possession of an associate of defendant Gonzalez, was the weapon used to kill Mr. Prado. A year later, the Department of Justice Criminalistics Laboratory received a 'cold hit' identification establishing that a small amount of blood found at the scene matched DNA from defendant Gonzales."

Eight years after the murder, a trial concluded with the "guilty" verdict.

Gonzales faces life in state prison without the possibility of parole, and will be sentenced March 3 by Judge Stephen L. Mock.

Woman tries to help dog, gets bit

The Yolo County Animal Services Division is asking the public for help in locating a dog involved in a biting incident on the I-80 onramp at Jefferson Boulevard on Sunday.

A woman was bit by the "pit bull" type dog as she "attempted to contain the dog from traffic," reports the County of Yolo's Animal Services Division. The woman suffered a bite on her left ear.

The dog was described as "large with a stocky build, brown in color, with white markings." It was last seen at the onramp.

If authorities can locate the dog and verify rabies vaccination, the victim can avoid undergoing rabies exposure treatment.

Anyone with information is asked to call (530) 668-5287 or email animal.bite@yolocounty.org.

Meanwhile, a spokesperson for the animal services told the News-Ledger that they have located a dog in-involved in a different local biting incident.

They had been looking for a "boxer"-type animal after a January 10 incident at the city dog park, 205 Stone Boulevard. A citizen answered a call for information on that dog, said the spokeswoman.

Boycotting Rudolph: a vow to skip holiday madness

With another lengthy holiday season finally behind us, I am reminded of a friend who doesn't think too highly of the Christmas holidays and is always thrilled when they are completely over. And she gets especially upset by the fact that they seem to start earlier each year.

"It wasn't even Halloween yet," she told me the other day, "and all the same useless garbage they sell every year during the holidays was already popping up in all the stores, not to mention all the items that were marked 'sale' when in reality they weren't truly on sale at all. The whole holiday season has become much too commercialized and I simply refuse to participate in Christmas anymore."

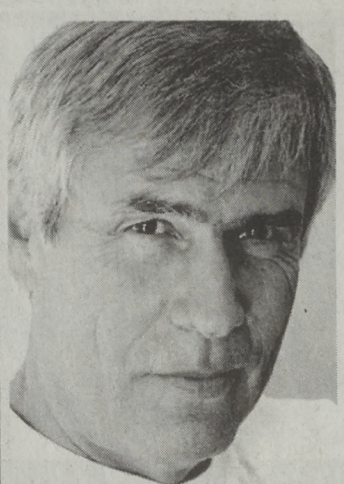

"What do you mean?" I asked with interest.

"Well," she explained, "a few years back I just decided that enough was enough. I was sick of slaving away making Christmas cookies and spending countless hours in crowded shopping malls picking out gifts that just got returned anyway. Plus it was really starting to cause problems for me and my husband."

"Christmas?" I asked, wondering how my favorite holiday could possibly be detrimental to a marriage.

"You see," she continued, "most men just don't realize how much time and effort goes into making the Christmas season the merry old time it's supposed to be.

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

They don't have to do all the shopping, the cooking, the stupid Christmas cards, the thank you notes, nothing. In fact, once the football season is underway, I can't get my husband to do much of anything. You're not like that, are you?"

"Of course not," I lied.

"For instance," she said, "just before Halloween, I took the grandkids over to the local pumpkin patch and I had to chase after them all by myself because my husband's favorite football team was losing by 150 points and he still couldn't get off the couch because he was sure they were going to make a miraculous comeback. Anyway, we always seem to have lots of fights during the holiday season and when we started throwing Christmas ornaments at each other a few years ago, I knew I had to do something."

"So what did you do?" I asked with interest.

"Well," she said matter-of-factly, "now that the kids are all grown and on their own, my husband and I simply don't do Christmas anymore."

"You're kidding?"

"Nope. No more lighted reindeer in the yard, no outrageously expensive Christmas tree to take up half the living room, and best of all, no having over a bunch of relatives and cooking a big dinner for people I can't stand for more than a few hours at a time. We don't even exchange gifts."

"Really?" I asked in awe. "You completely ignore Christmas?"

"That's right, except for going to church, of course. You ought to try it. It's heaven."

"But I don't think I've ever heard of anyone totally ignoring Christmas."

"Believe me, more people are doing it every year. We even leave town. In fact, next Christmas we are going on a cruise. Have you ever been on one?"

"No, I haven't," I admitted.

"Well," she said with excitement in her eyes, "you just float around on a huge boat with all the comforts of home and then every now and then it pulls into a port and you get to spend the whole day going in and out of all these cute little shops. It must be wonderful!"

"Well," I said, knowing that my friend is extremely weight-conscious, "I don't think you want to be taking one of those Alaskan cruises."

"Why do you say that?" she asked with interest. "It's actually right up there on top of our list."

"Well, a friend of mine went on one and said that they served her five meals a day, including lots of fancy desserts, and that she gained ten pounds and came home fat as a cow."

"Ten pounds?" said my friend with horror. "You can't be serious?"

Quickly realizing I had said the wrong thing, I decided to try and change the subject, but for some reason, the following words came tumbling uncontrollably out of my mouth:

"No more lighted reindeer in the yard, no outrageously expensive Christmas tree to take up half the living room, and no more cooking a big dinner for people I can't stand for more than a few hours at a time," she declared.

"You know, I just read somewhere that there's this new scientific study which shows that women – particularly those of European descent like you – are actually designed not only to store fat, but to resist losing it. In fact, it turns out that women have an enhanced ability to accumulate fat and are supposed to maintain at least a two-to-one fat-ratio to men. You see, these scientists were dissecting these female gorillas, and underneath all that furry skin, particularly around the thighs, they found this really impressive layer of fat. So they asked themselves why that should be and they came up with this new theory – that women just aren't supposed to have thin thighs, narrow hips and flat stomachs. Apparently women were given a body shape by evolution designed to store fat for lactation and hard times. Now, unlike rabbits, who average only four percent body fat because a slow rabbit is a dead rabbit, women are...."

"Stop it!" she suddenly shouted.

"But all I'm saying is that it's just not fair for society to hold women to a low-fat standard of beauty and that you ought to be able to eat anything you want on your holiday cruises."

Although she didn't say so, I got the distinct impression that had a Christmas ornament been available, she would have thrown it at me.

about a female teacher.

Jan. 23, 6 a.m.

A 4th Street woman reported a car burglary. Missing were an iPod music player, clothing and medication all worth around $150.

Jan. 23, 6:56 a.m.

Police contacted several people illegally camping south of the 900-block of Westacre Road. Three were arrested for having outstanding arrest warrants: a 53-year old woman, and a 38-year old and 41-year old man. All were homeless.

Jan. 23, 8:07 p.m.

Police conducted a probation search at a Maple Street apartment. A wanted parolee at large was contacted and taken into custody without incident. However, an officer reports wondering what the man was doing in the time it took him to come out and face police:

"Due to suspect being arrested in a high-drug area, and taking a very long time to exit the apartment, I requested the jail staff to strip-search suspect."

During the strip-search, they found a syringe in the man's underwear. He earned a new charge of trying to bring drug paraphernalia into the jail.

Jan. 24

A 76-year old Meadow Road man reported that someone had broken his window.

Jan. 24, 12:09 p.m.

Police responded to a domestic violence report in northern West Sacramento. The call involved a 62-year old man and his girlfriend.

The man told police that the couple had been fighting and he "might have pushed her," but that she had hit him with an electrical cord.

The woman said the man had threatened to kill her, punched her several times, and bit her finger when she tried to push him away. She said she feared for her life.

An officer observed there was a cut on her finger and other minor injuries.

She asked for, and was granted, an "EPO," or emergency protective order keeping the man away from her. Police arrested the man, believing him to be the "primary aggressor" in the conflict.

Jan. 24, 4:04 p.m.

Police answered a shoplifting call at a Southport supermarket. They were filled in by loss prevention officers.

The story began when a nearby department store alerted the supermarket that a woman had just left the department store after trying to make a fraudulent transaction. They saw the woman now walking into the supermarket across the parking lot.

Security at the supermarket then saw her "walk straight to the alcohol aisle and select a can of beer (and) conceal this item in her pants" before exiting. She was detained (possibly with additional stolen supermarket merchandise in her possession).

Police found her to be on probation for theft and narcotics charges, with three prior convictions. The woman went to jail.

Jan. 25, 12:02 a.m.

A Sacramento man reported someone had slashed all four of his vehicle's tires while it was parked near the restaurant he managed at Harbor Boulevard and West Capitol Avenue.

Jan. 25, 1:32 a.m.

An officer pulled over a 22-year old Bryte Avenue man for a driving violation at Fourness and Anna Street. During a pat-down search of the man's "loose" outer clothing, the officer felt a cylindrical object he thought was a drug smoking pipe.

The man admitted it was a "crank" pipe.

The officer pulled it out and noted that it appeared to have drug residue in it. The man was arrested and found to be in possession of 0.4 grams of methamphetamine.

Jan. 25, 7 a.m.

A woman on North Bass Island Road "woke to find her vehicle had been burglarized by unknown suspects."

Lost property was valued at about $1,000.

Jan. 25, 9:05 a.m.

An officer pulled over a 23-year old Maple Street man for riding a bike on the sidewalk in the business district, along the 900-block of West Capitol.

"As the suspect approached my position," noted the officer, "he placed his bike behind a large green electrical box and dropped a clear plastic baggie from his left hand."

The man turned out to be on searchable probation for a drug offense, and he showed signs of being under the influence of a stimulant: fast speech, eyelid tremors and dilated pupils.

The officer arrested him and put him into the patrol car, then checked next to the electrical box. He found a "small plastic cigar wrapper which contained a crystal-like substance" that later tested positive as 0.2 grams of methamphetamine.

Jan. 25, 2:05 p.m.

Police responded to a check cashing business on Sacramento Avenue, where a 32-year old homeless man had tried to cash an altered check.

The issuer of the check, a local motel owner, was contacted. He reported he had written the check for $111.60 to the man as a reimbursement of unused rent. The check had now been altered to read "$411.60."

The officer reports asking the suspect "to tell me the truth about when and where the check was altered."

The suspect "stated that he allowed someone else to alter the check, and he knowingly attempted to cash the check," first at a Jefferson Blvd. bank and then at a Jefferson convenience market, before coming to the Sacramento Avenue business.

"He knew it was wrong, but (said) that he was mentally weak," reported the officer. "He allowed himself to be talked into attempting to cash the check, and he was sorry."

The man went to jail.

Jan. 26, 1:32 a.m.

A 26-year old Elk Grove man reported a crime on the 1300-block of Hobson Avenue. He said he had been assaulted by two men who had yelled "Norteno!" — a gang affiliation reference.

Jan. 26, 3:10 a.m.

Unknown suspects broke an apartment window and windows on a vehicle, fleeing by car.

Jan. 26, 3 p.m.

An officer contacted a 30-year old homeless woman at Jefferson and West Capitol. She was on searchable probation.

She was found to have 5.6 grams of marijuana and a metal pipe in her backpack, with no "medical marijuana" card. The marijuana was seized and booked for destruction.

Jan. 26, 3:40 p.m.

Loss prevention officers at a supermarket on the 1600-block of West Capitol Avenue saw an F Street man try to leave the store with a bottle of Ketel One vodka ($47.99) and its liquor security cap ($10) in a backpack. They confronted him.

He pushed over one of the security personnel, and confronted another:

"He took a fighting stance, and for a brief moment stood face to face with the other officer," reported responding police. "(He) then turned as to run again, but tripped on a curb that he failed to see. . ."

There followed a brief struggle and then a trip to Yolo County jail.

Jan. 26, 7:20 p.m.

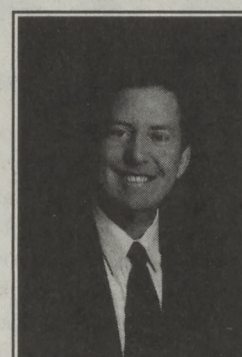

A man reported being robbed by a woman in an incident along the 700-block of Jefferson Boulevard. Reported an officer:

"Female grabbed money out of male's hand and ran away from the scene." The man reported losing two bills, a $20 and a $5. Police shortly afterward found the suspect, a 33-year old West Capitol woman, nearby. The man identified her for arrest.

She was found with a $20 along with $1.45 in change -- plus a receipt that showed she had just purchased a travel toothbrush kid and some Cottonelle cloths from a nearby store.

Jan. 26, 10:17 p.m.

An 18-year old woman reported her car had been burglarized on the 1000-block of Riverside Parkway. Gone were an iPad tablet computer, another computer, clothes, and a purse with a credit card. The loss was valued at around $850.

PICKS OF THE WEEK

"Ender's Game" (PG-13) -- Mankind's only hope against extinction lies with one boy who must grow into the greatest military leader Earth has ever produced. Humans were almost wiped out by the ant-like Formics, so humanity has poured a lot of resources into finding the next brilliant commander who will save us. Ender Wiggins (Asa Butterfield) is enrolled in an elite academy located on a space station. Here, he has to prove he has the strategic mind and the leadership skills to finish off the Formic threat for good.

The movie is based off of the science-fiction series by Orson Scott Card. Before there was Harry Potter, Ender Wiggins was the boy-savior enrolled in a special school who captured young readers. In both movie and book, however, "Ender's Game" is a darker story that takes a closer look at the hero's morality.

"The Best Man Holiday" (R) -- This sequel to the late '90s comedy hit "The Best Man" reunites the original cast for a feel (mostly) good romantic-comedy/drama/holiday movie. In the prequel, struggling writer Harper

Morris Chestnut and Monica Calhoun in "The Best Man Holiday"

(Taye Diggs) dropped quite a bomb by publishing some private stories about his friends around the time of Lance and Mia's (Morris Chestnut and Monica Calhoun) wedding. Nine years later, the whole group of college friends come together to celebrate the holidays at Lance and Mia's mansion.

The whole story goes down much easier thanks to the more comic Quentin (Terrence Howard) and Shelby (Melissa Desouza). The chemistry between the cast works quite well, even when the script gets sappy. Director Malcolm D. Lee perhaps overstuffs the story -- trying in the end to wrap up with birth, death, sex, friendship, Jesus and football all at once.

"All Is Lost" (PG-13) -- Robert Redford plays a man fighting for survival on the open ocean. He's all alone, and a storm has rammed a shipping container into his sailboat. There is hardly any dialog -- just a short voiceover speech in the beginning and the rest is pretty solitary. You don't even learn the character's name. With patience and a careful eye, a viewer may make it through the run time and feel a thing or two about man's place in nature. Others will be washed away in a drowning wave of bore-

DOG OF THE WEEK

"The Counselor" (R) -- Even if a movie has a script by a best-selling author, a renowned director in the chair and an A-list cast, it can still be awful. That is the clearest lesson one can learn from "The Counselor." It's a drug-world noir story in which Michael Fassbender plays a sweaty, handsome lawyer who gets caught up in an obviously bad situation. What's truly noteworthy is the droning, wannabe-philosophical dialog that drips out of every character's mouth.

Once upon a time there were two lovers, one from the north pole and one from the south. Across the entire length of the globe they are drawn to each other, two parts of the same soul ... and yet, they can never touch. How did this oddity come to be? That is the central question of "The Encyclopedia of Early Earth," an entrancing new graphic novel that presents an alternate version of the time before time.

Surrounding the story of the lovers is an ever-expanding circle of other tales, rippling out into a web of stories within stories. It tells of a family of bird gods, inventors and architects of the world, separate from and yet intimately entwined with their creations. It presents new versions of ancient myths and archetypes from religious and historical traditions, retold with just enough distance to makes the familiar narratives seem new and strange. It visits civilizations recognizable and yet alien, which love and fight and interact with each other just as humans have always done and always will do.

Dreamy and thoughtful, yet also sharp and smart, this "Encyclopedia" conjures visions of an ancient world merely a hairsbreadth from our own, perhaps just as real and possible as any other human-origin story.

The art has a beguiling simplicity, drawn with strong lines and bold patterns that evoke both primitive etchings and the panels of modern comic books. A subtle wit pervades the dialogue and composition (the background antics of

Not Your Mama's Pressure Cooker

The recent cold weather sparked a yearning at my house for a nice pot of pinto beans with a side of spicy, jalapeno cornbread. The problem was that I hadn't pre-soaked my beans. The solution -- my new Fagor pressure cooker. Previously, I had been afraid to use a pressure cooker, mainly because of the way the older models were designed. My mother's pressure cooker rattled, hummed and blew out fragrant puffs of hot steam like a metal dragon. I've heard numerous urban legends about pressure cooker explosions, food-splattered ceilings and ruined dinners. Fortunately, the newer models are virtually fool-proof, sleekly designed and easy to use.

The modern pressure cooker is a hermetically sealed pot that heats water or other liquids to a temperature of about 250 degrees F. This is a far higher temperature than you can reach by cooking in an ordinary pot, because the temperature of food is limited by the boiling point of water (212 F). A pressure cooker can reduce cooking time by a factor of three to four.

Here's how it works: The liquid starts boiling and some of it changes to steam, which causes a mixture of air and steam to be released via the safety valve. Once all the air is released, pressure builds up in the pot. When the desired pressure is reached, the heat is turned down to a level where it maintains the proper pressure, and no more steam will be released. If the pressure gets too high, the valve will release steam to prevent the pot from exploding. Modern pressure cookers have a back-up pressure release, which comes into action if the safety valve gets obstructed by the contents of the pot, such as soup or stew.

The secret of the modern pressure cooker is in the lid, which usually is fitted to the pot by a bayonet lock. It contains a rubber ring and at least one safety valve. The safety valve not only releases air and steam, but has an indicator that shows the built-up pressure. Usually, there are two pressure levels to choose from: The first mark for foods that don't need much pressure, such as vegetables and fish; the second, more commonly used, is for practically anything else, such as potatoes, curry or meat.

My recipe for Risotto with Mushrooms and Peas combines traditional risotto cooking techniques with the speed and efficiency of a pressure cooker. For more information about pressure cookers, go to www.fagor.com.

RISOTTO WITH MUSHROOMS AND PEAS

If you use one of the other types of Italian risotto rice -- Baldo, Violone Nano or Carnaroli -- instead of the traditional Arborio, you'll need to cook it for 5 to 6 minutes under pressure rather than 4 to 5 minutes.

1 tablespoon olive oil or butter
3 slices bacon, diced
1/2 cup finely chopped onions
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
2 cloves garlic, diced
1 1/2 cups Arborio rice
1/2 cup dry white wine, sherry, dry vermouth or aged white balsamic vinegar
3 1/2 cups chicken or vegetable broth
8 ounces sliced portabella mushrooms
8 ounces white mushrooms

1 cup frozen sweet green peas
1/2 cup grated Parmesan, plus more to pass at the table
1/8 teaspoon ground nutmeg
2 tablespoons chopped parsley, for garnish

1. Heat oil or butter in a 2 1/2-quart or larger cooker. Add bacon and cook over high heat until bacon is crispy, about 3 to 4 minutes. Remove bacon to paper towels to drain. Add onions, salt and pepper to oil and cook over high heat for about a minute, stirring frequently. Stir in garlic and the rice, taking care to coat the rice with the oil. Cook for 30 seconds, stirring constantly.

2. Stir in wine or balsamic vinegar. Cook over high heat until rice has absorbed the liquid, about 30 seconds. Stir in 3 cups of broth and the mushrooms, taking care to scrape up any rice that might be sticking to the bottom of the cooker. Lock the lid in place. Over high heat, bring to high pressure. Reduce heat just enough to maintain high pressure, and cook for 4 minutes.

3. Turn off the heat. Quick-release pressure by setting the cooker under cold running water. Remove the lid, tilting it away from you to allow the steam to escape.

4. Set cooker over medium-high heat, and stir vigorously. The risotto will look fairly soupy at this point. Boil while stirring every minute or so, until the mixture thickens and the rice is tender but still chewy, 1 to 4 minutes. Stir in the peas when the rice is almost done. (If the mixture becomes dry before the rice is done, stir in the extra 1/2 cup of broth.) The finished risotto should be slightly runny; it will continue to thicken as it sits on the plate.

5. Turn off the heat. Stir in the bacon, Parmesan and nutmeg. Serve immediately, garnished with a little parsley, if desired. Pass extra Parmesan at the table.

HOCUS-FOCUS

BY HENRY BOLTIHOFF

CAN YOU TRUST YOUR EYES? There are at least six differences in drawing details between top and bottom panels. How quickly can you find them?

NEWS-LEDGER EDITORIAL:

Whom to hold responsible for a pesky problem

Earlier this month, the West Sacramento City Council entertained a proposal to try to work with a new developer to create a 300-room hotel on the West Sacramento riverfront. The hotel would land on a former industrial area north of the freeway – a place West Sacramento calls its “Bridge District.” Only one member of the public spoke up before the council deliberated. He was a representative of a north-city neighborhood group, and he was obviously fed up with having homeless camps as neighbors. He used the occasion in front of the city council to criticize Mayor Christopher Cabaldon for “ignoring the law” and failing to clear the area of transients. The News-Ledger had several different reactions to this criticism. One is that it must indeed be very frustrating to have these transients as neighbors. Now, it’s important not to paint all homeless people with the same broad brush. Many of them are decent people who are down on their luck or experiencing some kind of mental illness beyond their control. But it’s safe to say that many of West Sacramento’s transients do cause problems for others. These folks can steal and engage in other petty crimes. They leave behind trash, and worse things. Another reaction to this gentleman’s comments is that the hotel – or any new development along the riverfront – is going to help him out. After all, one of the best ways to address a chronic crime problem can be to fix a land use problem. Right now, a lot of the West Sacramento riverfront is remote, underused land. It’s inviting to those who want to stay away from prying eyes. Build some public attractions there, and the petty crimes of some of the transient population will be nudged out. A third response is a question that comes to mind quite often in West Sacramento: Why, exactly, is the mayor so often such a lightning rod for criticism like this? True, this particular mayor keeps a large profile in the media. But at the same time, he is just one of five votes on the council, and the council is usually unanimous in its handling of big local issues. It voted unanimously (4-0, on that particular night) in favor of pursuing the new hotel project. Do the other councilmen – Mark Johannessen, Bill Kristoff, Chris Ledesma and Oscar Villegas – offer a different policy on the hotel, or on police enforcement regarding illegal homeless camps? No? Then why single out one person when you’re speaking to a group that’s so often of the same mind?

We’re not sure, but we think we saw the city arborist a month or two ago, scattering seed at the Jefferson Boulevard freeway interchange. We wondered if there was any connection between this seed-scattering and the annual spring show of golden poppies at the busy interchange. In any event, the annual flower show is always appreciated.

You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 714-730-2727 for information regarding the trustee's sale or visit this Internet Web site <http://www.qualityloan.com>, using the file number assigned to this foreclosure by the Trustee: CA-13-563917-JP. If no street address or other common designation is shown, directions to the location of the property may be obtained by sending a written request to the beneficiary within 10 days of the date of first publication of this Notice of Sale. If the Trustee is unable to convey title for any reason, the successful bidder's sole and exclusive remedy shall be the return of monies paid to the Trustee, and the successful bidder shall have no further recourse. If the sale is set aside for any reason, the Purchaser at the sale shall be entitled only to a return of the deposit paid. The Purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Mortgagee, the Mortgagee, or the Mortgagee's Attorney. GUEST COMMENTS: What kind of web access do you want and need?

From Beth Gabor County of Yolo

As part of a countywide strategic planning initiative to formulate a long term sustainable broadband plan, the Yolo Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCo) is seeking feedback from Yolo County businesses and residents concerning their broadband needs and services via a survey posted on www.yolocounty.org.

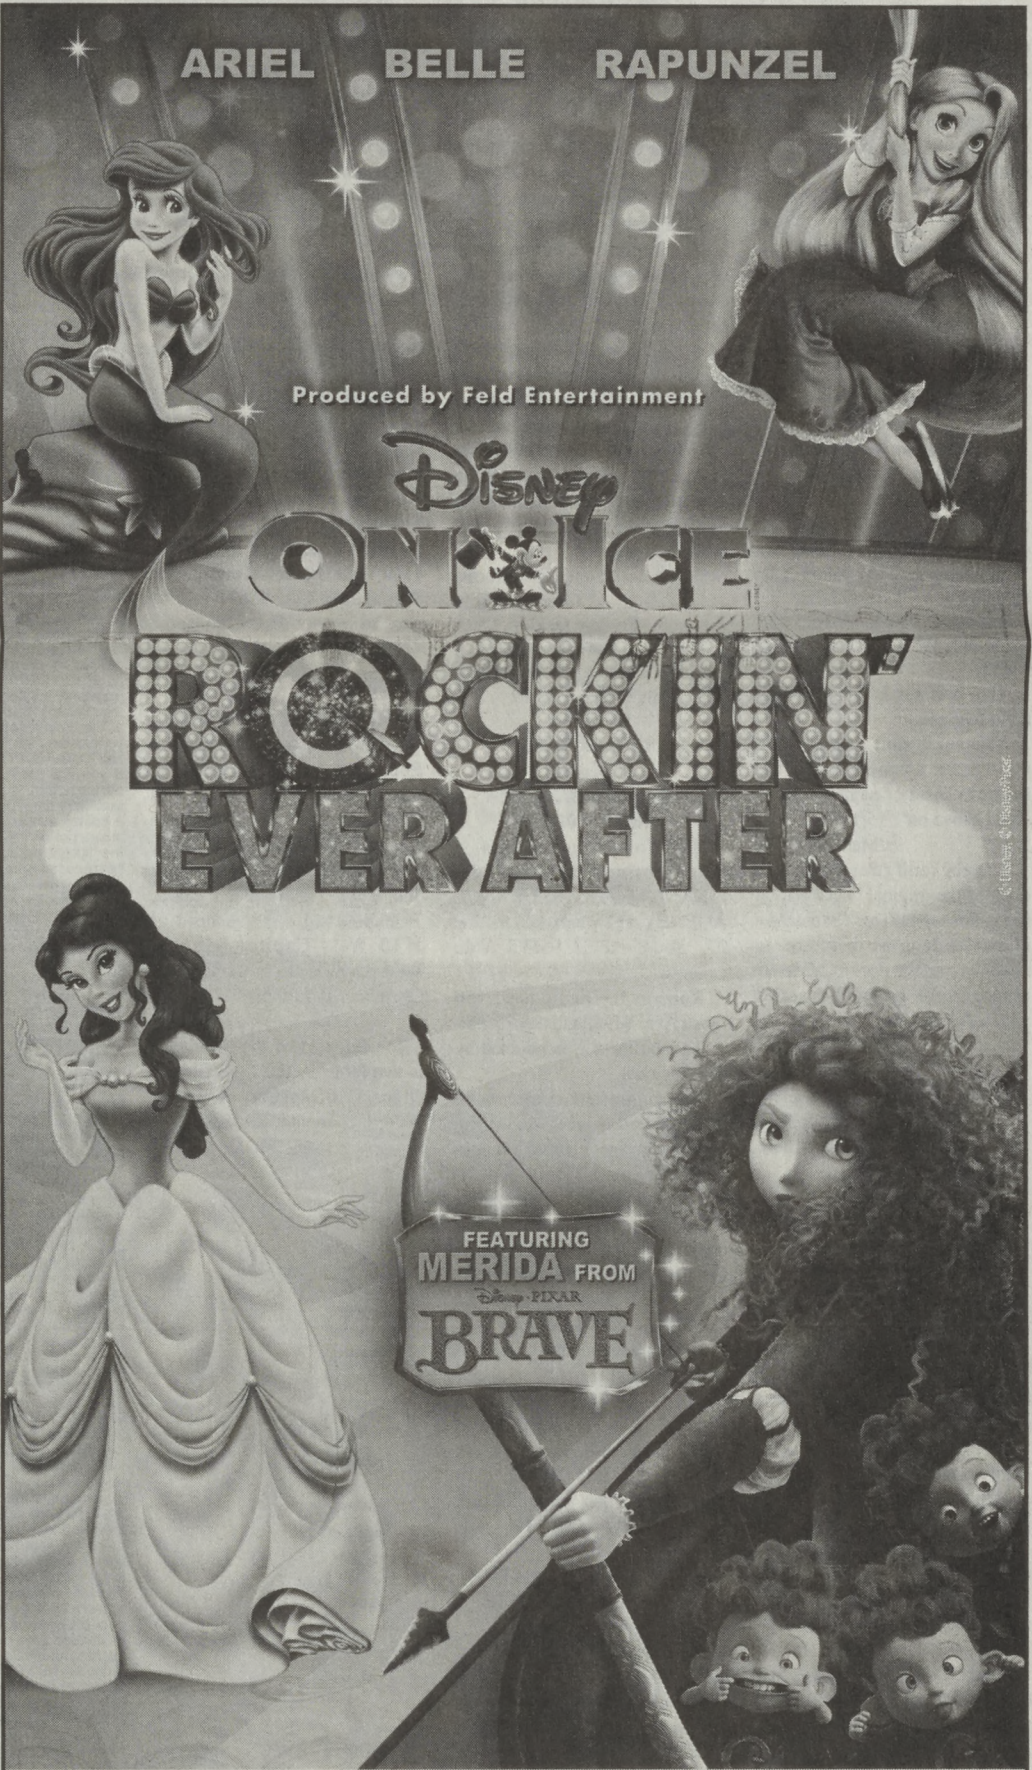

As more of our daily lives are carried out online, access to affordable and reliable broadband Internet service is important to the future of the Yolo County community. The countywide region (including the cities of Davis, West Sacramento, Winters and Woodland, and all the unincorporated communities and rural areas within Yolo County) is embarking on a collaborative broadband Internet planning study to determine how to best ensure that Yolo County businesses, residents and community anchors have access to affordable, reliable broadband Internet service that will meet their long-term needs.

The goals of this study are to determine what Internet service is currently available and where there are gaps, to identify related community goals and ultimately, to produce a strategic "roadmap" of how to best close gaps in service and achieve community objectives.

Those who live and/or work in Yolo County are encouraged to assist in this effort by completing the short online survey and by encouraging family, friends and colleagues to do the same. The survey is important because, in addition to learning about the needs of Yolo County businesses and residents, it includes a "wireline" speed test that will gather important information about Internet speeds throughout Yolo County. This speed data, currently mapped by the California Public Utilities Commission, is based on Internet provider data, which can overstate actual speeds. Gathering accurate data of actual Internet speeds is a critical step in making Yolo County communities eligible for related state and federal grant funding.

"This is a unique opportunity for all of our residents and businesses to have a direct impact in the planning of Yolo County's broadband and Internet future and we thank them in advance for their participation," said Yolo LAFCo Executive Officer Christine Crawford in a press release.

To participate in the survey, go to www.yolocounty.org and selected the Yolo Broadband Survey link.

The street address and other common designation, if any, of the real property described above is purported to be: 26823 PLAINFIELD ST. ESPARTO (UNINCORPORATED) CA 95924. The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any inaccuracy of the street address and other common designation, if any, shown on the map. The sale will be made in an "AS IS" condition, but without covenant or warranty, expressed or implied, regarding title, possession, or encumbrances, to the remaining principal sum of the note(s) secured by said Deed of Trust, with interest thereon, as provided in said note(s), advances, if any, under the terms of the Deed of Trust, estimated fees, charges and expenses of the Trustee and of the trustee created by said Deed of Trust, and $22,791.54 (Estimated as of 01/15/2014). Accrued interest and additional advances, if any, will increase this figure prior to sale. It is possible that at the time of sale the opening bid may be less than the total indebtedness due. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off the senior lien(s) to the lender auctioning off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown in this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call, (714) 730-2727 for information regarding the trustee's sale or visit this Internet Web site, <https://www.lpsasap.com/>, for information regarding the sale of this property, using the file number assigned to this case, T.S.#9551-1161. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. If the Trustee is unable to convey title for any reason, the successful bidder's sole and exclusive remedy shall be the return of monies paid to the Trustee and the successful bidder shall have no further recourse. Southport trail opens

West Sacramento officials plan to officially open the Clarksburg Branch Line Trail in a ceremony Friday morning at 10:30 a.m., just east of the Target store (2005 Town Center Plaza).

The city has converted a 1.25-mile segment of the former Yolo Short Line Railroad into a paved multi-use trail ranging from River City High School northward to South River Road. Funding assistance came from the Sacramento Area Council of Governments (SACOG).

The trail is accessible to cyclists and pedestrians for commuting, shopping and recreation, reports city spokesman Art Schroeder.

Flu shots: free

The Yolo County Health Department has put another free flu vaccine clinic on the schedule in West Sacramento, in order to help you stave off the "H1N1" virus.

So far, says county spokesperson Beth Gabor, five Yolo County residents have been sent to the intensive care unit after coming down with the flu.

Vaccine is available for those age six and up. Those age 2-49 may receive it through "flu mist" instead of a needle.

The free clinic is scheduled for 4-8 p.m. on Wed., Feb. 5, at West Sacramento City Hall, 1110 West Capitol Avenue.

'Café Garage Sale'

Trinity Presbyterian Church will host a "garage sale" indoors in its café beginning 8:30 a.m. on Sat., Feb. 8.

Merchandise will include furniture, electronics and office supplies, and you're welcome to make an offer on any of it. Coffee provided. Proceeds support youth ministries.

The church is located at 1500 Park Blvd. Call 371-5875 for information.

Energy upgrades

An alternative financing program is available for property owners who wish to upgrade their heating and air conditioning systems, solar systems, roofs, windows and other systems. The "PACE" program offered by Ygrene Energy Fund is now available in Yolo County.

The program offers 100 percent financing to projects on properties that have at least 15 percent equity, and is available for both homeowners and commercial projects. The financing is bound to the property rather than the individual or business on it, and transfers with the property to a new owner like a property tax. Visit www.CleanEnergyYolo.com. Using the promo code "UPGRADEYOLO" will earn a savings on the $50 application fee.

Library + museums

Your Yolo County library card can earn you free and low-cost passes to Northern California museums through the "Discover & Go" program. Visit www.discover.yolocountylibrary.org.

For general library information, visit www.yolocountylibrary.org or look for the library on Facebook.

Ribs & chicken

The West Sacramento Elks Club will host a BBQ rib and chicken dinner, 6-8 p.m. on Sat., Feb. 1, at 423 3rd Street. Advance tickets are $12 ($6 at the door for kids under 12). Call 372-3057.

Elks' breakfast

Join the West Sacramento Elks Lodge for a breakfast of pancakes, eggs and trimming from 8 to 11 a.m. on Sunday, Feb. 9.

$7.50 donation. The lodge is located at 423 Third Street. For information, call 215-0102.

Crab feed

Our Lady of Grace will host a crab feed beginning 6 p.m. on Sat., Feb. 1. Dinner, full bar, dancing, raffles. $45/person, age 21 and up. Visit www.olgevents.com or call 371-9416.

Don't Rush to Flush

Save the waterways; don't flush unneeded medications down the toilet or dump them in the trash. You may leave your unwanted meds in a drop-off bin at Jefferson Pharmacy, 1029 Jefferson Blvd., for free.

Bible study

Horizon Women's Christian Fellowship invites you to the "Battlefield of the Mind" Bible study, meeting Wednesdays from 10:30 a.m. to noon at 1800 Manzanita Avenue. Day care provided.

Book bargains

Pick up something great to read at the winter book sale hosted by the West Sacramento Friends of the Library on the weekend of Feb. 8-9. Saturday's hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Sunday's are 10-3, at 1212 Merkley Avenue. Hardback books will go for $1, paperbacks 50 cents, children's books 10-25 cents, with specially priced books, CDs, movies and records as well. Sunday, you can buy books at $3 per bag. For information or to volunteer, call 375-6465 ext 4, or email wsfol99@yahoo.com.
